1 (All present via teleconference.)

2 (Defendant not present.)

3 THE CLERK: This is a criminal cause for bail
4 application, USA versus Genaro Garcia Luna. The case number 5 is 19-CR-576.

6 Counsel, state your names for the record starting 7 with the government.

8 MR. HARRIS: Ryan Harris for the United States.
9 Good morning, Your Honor. With me are Michael Robotti and 10 Erin Reid also for the United States.

11 THE CLERK: Thank you.
12 For the defendant?

13 MR. DE CASTRO: Good morning, Your Honor. Cesar 14 De Castro and Valeria Gotlib for Mr. Garcia Luna.

15 THE COURT: Good morning.

16 THE CLERK: Thank you.

17 THE COURT: Okay. Mr. Harris?

18 MR. HARRIS: Yes, Your Honor.

19 THE COURT: Why don't you summarize the government's 20 position with respect to bail for Mr. Garcia Luna.

21 MR. HARRIS: Sure, Your Honor.

22 So as an initial matter, it's our view that the risk 23 that this defendant will flee if he is released under any 24 conditions are unacceptably high.

25 The first question I think for the Court to consider

1 is does this defendant have a motive to flee. Absolutely, he 2 does. Charged with multiple drug trafficking conspiracy
3 charges, they all involve the most powerful and violent drug 4 trafficker --

5 THE COURT: Right. One moment, Mr. Harris.

6 If you are not government counsel or defense
7 counsel, you must mute your lines. Thank you.

8 Continue, Mr. Harris.

9 MR. HARRIS: Thank you.

10 He faces a minimum of 10 years in prison, that's the 11 guidelines range, to life. That potential life sentence is an 12 incredibly strong incentive to flee and the evidence of his 13 guilt here is damning in the government's view. It includes 14 testimony from numerous witnesses including multiple firsthand
15 witnesses who personally bribed the defendant, drug seizures
16 and financial records. And so question for the court is does 17 the defendant have a motive to flee the United States. The 18 answer unequivocally is yes.

19 The second question for the Court is does he have 20 the means to flee and, again, the answer is absolutely he 21 does. First, he has extremely strong ties to a foreign 22 country: Mexico. He was born in Mexico. He was raised in 23 Mexico. He is a citizen of Mexico. He lived there his entire 24 life until 2012. He has extended family in Mexico. He 25 traveled there more than 30 times in the last five years.

1 In addition, crossing the border to Mexico for a 2 Mexican citizen is not challenging. He can cross by car, by 3 foot without even showing official documents. At least that's 4 our understanding.

5 In Mexico, he would not just have the support of 6 family. He would have the support of former --

7 (Inaudible.)

8 THE COURT: Mr. Harris, just a second.

9 Sui-May, do me a favor. E-mail me the host
10 password. Not the access code but the host password.

11 MR. HARRIS: I was saying he can cross by car or on 12 foot without even needing to show any official documents. At 13 least that's the government's understanding.

14 THE COURT: Thank you, Mr. Harris.

15 MR. HARRIS: Yes, Your Honor.

16 THE COURT: One second, Mr. Harris. Bear with me.
17 (Pause.)

18 THE CLERK: Do you need me to do something, Judge?

19 THE COURT: What I did is I pulled up all of the 20 people who are calling in and I've muted who doesn't have it 21 on mute.

22 I just want to be clear. If you are not muted and I
23 hear you and you are not defense counsel or government 24 counsel, you are going to get muted and you may get kicked off
25 the call. This is a public proceeding but we have to operate

1 like we were in court. Anyone in the gallery has to shut up.
2 So if you have it on speaker and not mute, we're going to hear
3 you and you are going to get kicked out.

4 Sorry, Mr. Harris. You can continue.

5 MR. HARRIS: Thank you, Your Honor.

6 So what I was just saying or discussing was the ease
7 with which he could cross into Mexico.

8 Now, once he arrives in Mexico, this defendant would 9 not have the support of his extended family. He would have 10 the support of a web of corrupt former Mexican officials and 11 members of the Sinaloa cartel which are the two most powerful 12 institutions in Mexico. This is a web he has built over 13 decades during his time in Mexico and this web of a 14 combination of corrupt former officials and Sinaloa cartel
15 members has helped other individuals, powerful individuals 16 escape capture of prosecution for years. Chapo Guzman has 17 evaded capture for 15 years. Gabriel Cantero is currently at 18 large and has been evading capture for seven years. This web
19 can assist him in doing the same and it would be powerfully
20 motivated to ensure that he never returns to an American 21 courtroom where the full details of his crimes would be 22 unveiled.

23 So he has the strong motive to flee and the means he 24 needs to do so and these risks, in the government's view, are 25 unacceptably high. That's why we believe there are no

1 accommodations or conditions that will ensure his continued
2 appearance service.

3 Pretrial Services has reached this same conclusion
4 twice, both when he was originally arraigned in the Western 5 District of Texas and as recently as February 27th in 6 connection with the last bond application, Pretrial Service
7 reached the same conclusion. This is obviously also a case
8 where there is a fact driven presumption that the defendant 9 should be detained due to the nature of the crimes he's 10 charged with and we believe the facts here just echo the 11 presumption and that conclusion. So the government feels that 12 a permanent order is necessary.

13 We also have, as outlined in our brief, significant 14 concerns and believe there are substantial defects in the bond 15 application that's being proposed here.

16 Now, as an initial matter, the defendant presents
17 this as a $2 million bond but, Your Honor, in reality, it's 18 more of an $800,000 bond. That's because he's proposing to 19 secure the bond with a real estate property worth 20 $1.2 million. That property the government is already going 21 to seek to forfeit at the conclusion of this criminal 22 prosecution and so he knows he's going to lose it if he's 23 convicted. It provides no incentive for him to stay and 24 that's precisely what courts would have to apply in the 3142,
25 subsection (g)(4), statute that includes that properties that

1 are subject to forfeiture may not be appropriate collateral
2 for a bond proceeding.

3 So he knows that he's going to lose this property
4 whether he's convicted or whether he flees. There's nothing 5 to deter him from fleeing to preserve this property, but what 6 the property being posted does do is it significantly reduces 7 the financial exposure of the suretors here. So they, in 8 effect, only have $800,000 worth of exposure, not $2 million 9 worth of exposure.

10 More so, Your Honor, because the value of the 11 properties proposed to be posted by two of the suretors, 12 Carlos and Maria Villar, exceed $800,000, the remaining 13 suretors have no financial exposure under this proposed bond
14 because it's going to be satisfied by those properties. So 15 although it's presented as a $2 million ten suretor bond 16 package, in reality, Your Honor, it's more of an $800,000 two 17 -suretor bond package.

18 Now, those two suretors, Carlos and Maria Villar, in 19 our view, cannot exercise the necessary moral suasion to 20 ensure that the defendant returns to court.

21 I saw in the defendant's latest filing last night
22 that Mr. Villar now represents that he saw the defendant a 23 year ago in January 2019. I would note that we interviewed 24 Mr. Villar twice this past week and in connection with the 25 February 27th bond proceeding and both times, he had said that

1 he had not seen the defendant in two years which is just not 2 consistent with what he's saying. His wife gave the same
3 number, that she had not seen him in about two years. And in 4 addition, both of them separately said that they had only seen
5 the defendant about ten times since 2012 so that's about once 6 a year.

7 Now, under the way this bond is structured, these 8 are the only two people that are going to have real financial 9 exposure here and these two people who live hundreds of miles 10 away from him with no ability to monitor firsthand, they're 11 not going to be able to see him every day, every week, every 12 month, and they already have not seen him more than a year or 13 possibly two years depending on which version of the facts you 14 believe based on Mr. Villar's representation to the various 15 parties. You can count the number of times he's seen them in 16 the past eight years on two hands. It's not a lot. This is 17 not the type of close relationship, somebody who lives in the 18 community with him that can monitor him.

19 Now, given the seriousness of the charges here, the 20 defendant's strong incentive to flee, the significant ties to 21 a foreign country with a close border and, in fact, if he were 22 to return to Mexico, it's obvious these two suretors don't 23 provide the sufficient assurance that he's going to return to 24 the court and they cannot exercise the sufficient supervision
25 and moral situation.

1 Now, the remaining eight suretors, because of this 2 property being posted, they have no financial exposure under 3 the proposed bond. It's going to be fully satisfied by 4 Mr. Villar's property and the defendant's already forfeitable 5 property.

6 Now, the government has endeavored to interview each
7 of those witnesses and, frankly, Your Honor, it's raised 8 additional concerns putting aside what I've just said. Two of 9 the remaining suretors, Cesar Giraldo and Andres Merro, are 10 former employees of the defendant. Carla Perez was also a 11 former employee of the defendant and apparently she's no
12 longer willing to sign the bond.

13 Just with respect to Ms. Perez, Your Honor, we want 14 to correct the record. In the defendant's last filing 15 yesterday, there was a reference or an insinuation that 16 Ms. Perez had been pressured not to sign the bond because it 17 had been communicated to her that it would jeopardize her 18 son's citizenship application.

19 As far as the government is aware, that is out of 20 our control. I personally spoke to Ms. Perez. I never 21 brought up the son's citizenship application. It never came 22 up at all in any of our interviews with her. In fact,
23 Your Honor, I didn't even know she had a son, let alone a 24 citizenship application was pending until I saw the file last 25 night. So any impression that the government pressured her

1 not to sign the bond is categorically false.

2 The remaining two suretors that I mentioned, Cesar
3 Giraldo and Andres Merro, as I said, they're former employees
4 of the defendant. They depended on the defendant for their 5 financial livelihood for years. They called the defendant and 6 his wife their boss.

7 We spoke to Cesar Giraldo specifically this morning, 8 Your Honor. He told us that for the last several years, he's 9 derived 90 percent of his income from the defendant. The 10 relationship with a boss to an employee with Cesar Giraldo
11 being the employee. He said it was not a social relationship.
12 It was a strictly business relationship. It is not the type 13 of relationship where he can exercise moral suasion or 14 authority over him to ensure that he returns to court.

15 Moreover, it's not clear that Cesar Giraldo has any 16 current source of income now that the defendant has been 17 arrested and he depended on him until he was arrested in 18 December for 90 percent of his income. I tried to get a 19 better sense of his finances when we spoke and I asked him how 20 much money he was making now and he would not give me a 21 figure. He just said not much, not much at all, so it's not 22 even clear he has any income to help satisfy the bond.

23 In the defense's submission, they represented that 24 Mr. Giraldo was willing to secure the bond with his house 25 which they represented was worth $489,000 and he had $175,000

1 in equity. Now, when I spoke with Mr. Giraldo this morning, 2 it raised significant questions about that representation.
3 What he told me, Your Honor, was that he bought this house in 4 2015 for a little north of $300,000. His down payment was 5 only $11,000. He told me that he still owes $313,000 on that 6 mortgage meaning he has not acquired substantial more equity
7 in the home due to payments on his mortgage.

8 So when the defense said that he has $175,000 equity 9 in a home valued at $489,000, there's not a real basis for 10 that. There was no appraisal of this house done. There was 11 no assessment of his house done. It was essentially based on 12 their view that this house is now worth $489,000 or almost 13 $200,000 more than when he purchased it five years ago. It's 14 kind of pulling a number out of a hat. He's not put down 15 $175,000 in a down payment or otherwise invested in the 16 property. It's purely based on their assessment of the market
17 and not backed by any documentation as far as the government 18 is aware.

19 The second suretor that Your Honor we reference is 20 Andres Merro, also an employee of the defendant, and we tried 21 to speak with him numerous times in connection with this bond 22 application. He has not returned our call. We've called and 23 left voicemails numerous times. We haven't been able to 24 confirm whether he's willing to sign the bond, whether he's 25 willing to secure his residence or how much equity value he

1 actually has in the residence or whether it's based on this 2 kind of assessment of the current market value of his home or 3 not.

4 When we did interview Mr. Merro a month ago in 5 connection with the prior bond application, he advised the 6 government that he had not seen the defendant in two years and 7 he had only met him approximately ten times. So, again, Your 8 Honor, this is not the kind of relationship where he has the 9 necessary moral suasion over the defendant, the kind of social 10 relationship. He is someone who reported to the defendant and 11 his wife. He's dependent on them for his financial 12 livelihood.

13 So it's hard to come to any conclusion when you look 14 at these two suretors. Other than that, they are signing, 15 they feel pressured because it's their former employers and 16 because they don't have any real financial exposure under the 17 bond because it's going to be satisfied by other properties
18 posted by Mr. Villar.

19 So that leaves two remaining financially exposed 20 suretors, Ivan Ramirez and Monica Sarmiento. They have not 21 agreed to post any collateral. In prior applications and in 22 connection with this application, they repeatedly expressed 23 hesitancy about signing the bond that would give them real 24 financial exposure and their willingness to sign on properties 25 being posted that wouldn't satisfy the bond. I believe that

1 their current willingness to sign the bond is at least 2 predicated on the understanding that because this $1.2 million 3 forfeited property being posted by the defendant and there's 4 another property by Mr. Villar, they don't really have 5 financial exposure.

6 So, Your Honor, I think that what you're really 7 looking at here is an $800,000 bond signed by two suretors who 8 are hundreds of miles away and don't have the kind of 9 relationship to exercise moral suasion over him. As I 10 mentioned to you earlier, there is no combination of 11 conditions that would secure his release, but certainly this 12 package raises significant questions about the true value of 13 the properties, the current income of the suretors and whether 14 they actually have any financial exposure and are going to be 15 sufficiently motivated to have skin in the game in order to, 16 in order to ensure the defendant returns to court.

17 Now, there's a separate application, Your Honor, in 18 connection with whether he should be temporarily released for 19 purposes of COVID-19 which I'm happy to address now or if we'd 20 like to focus on this application as an initial matter and 21 then we can turn to COVID-19, I'm also happy to do that.

22 THE COURT: Let's take them one at a time.

23 Mr. De Castro, do you want to respond?

24 MR. DE CASTRO: Yes, Judge. Thank you.

25 Well, I guess let me start with the following. So

1 it seems in the government's view that you cannot be friends
2 with the defendant, you cannot be his family, you cannot be 3 his current business associate or former business associate.
4 So I really don't know who in the government's view could ever
5 sign a bond to then qualify as, you know, what they're saying 6 is an appropriate moral suasion witness.

7 First -- I mean, second, with respect to Ms. Perez,
8 our application does not say that the government said anything
9 about his immigration, her son's immigration applications.
10 What was communicated by Ms. Perez to my client's family was 11 that her counsel had informed her that signing on the bond
12 could jeopardize that application in some sort of way, I 13 guess, given the high profile nature of the case. So we've 14 withdrawn her at her request as a potential cosigner. And as 15 we made clear in our reply last night, that removed -- she 16 has, I think she reports about $19,000 in salary and she was 17 not putting up a property.

18 So all the co-signers in this case collectively -- 19 the government likes to focus upon each individual person and 20 they do not want to focus on this package as a whole and the 21 reason they don't want to do that is because it's a very 22 strong package which, as a whole, people with moral suasion, 23 people with financial responsibility, property.

24 What the government just gave you in a very lengthy 25 sort of summary was that, okay, now they're still not enough

1 skin in the game for the cosigners. We're dammed if we do.
2 We're dammed if we don't. If we put up properties of the 3 co-signers, now they're saying there's not enough, they don't 4 have enough skin in the, game so a $2 million bond is not 5 appropriate. Fine, increase the bond to 3 million, but then 6 when we don't have both properties, they say that the 7 co-signers have no skin in the game. So I don't really know 8 what to do there.

9 We decided to do a combination where we're putting 10 up the defendant's property which is valued we believe around
11 $1.2 million, and that property, as I said in the prior bail
12 applications and I know the Court read the transcripts, I'm 13 sure, the government talks as if they won a forfeiture on 14 traceable assets here. Number one, these aren't assets they 15 have listed in an indictment as frozen or forfeitable. These 16 are substitute assets that they're talking about. They have 17 to win a trial and then they have to actually succeed in a 18 forfeiture proceeding.

19 So I think it's a little bit presumptuous to say 20 that these are properties that are, will be forfeited in our 21 multi-million dollar judgment that we haven't obtained yet.

22 The issue of Mr. Villar, Carlos Villar is a former 23 FBI agent that worked with Mr. Garcia Luna years ago. They 24 remain close friends. I've been in contact with him
25 throughout this process. He's very concerned about his friend

1 and former, I guess, colleague. They didn't work for the same
2 organization but they were colleagues. And the version -- I
3 don't know, I don't know what notes the government has, but 4 any time I've spoken with Mr. Villar, you know, he's expressed
5 a real concern with Mr. Garcia Luna and I think he expressed 6 that in the e-mail that we attach to our reply.

7 The government has this issue with where he is, that 8 he's in Utah. Okay. Well, you know, we're in 2020. We are 9 all sitting -- there are 16 people participating in a 10 telephone conference for a bail proceeding. I talked to my 11 family via Zoom because we're all in, you know, we're all 12 hunkering down. I'm still very close with my family. I'm 13 still very close with people I speak on the telephone that I 14 see on occasion because people are traveling or working or 15 decided to retire in different places. I think that's just a 16 red herring and they're just coming up with some excuse or 17 reason to try to disqualify someone who is an extraordinarily 18 strong suretor.

19 With respect to -- I mean, I think we put our 20 positions very clear on the record. I don't -- every 21 defendant who is charged in a federal case has a, quote, 22 unquote, or is a flight risk in some sort of way, has a motive
23 to flee, as the government puts it. This defendant is not 24 fleeing. He's not going anywhere. All these people have, 25 will have skin in the game. His community in Florida, his

1 business community, his former colleagues, all these people
2 will be at risk. The thought that he's going to somehow get 3 in the car and drive from Washington, D.C. or if he's living
4 in New York, drive to the border and, you know, somehow walk 5 across the border or be in a car or something like that and 6 then make his way is --

7 (Inaudible interruption.)

8 THE COURT: Hold on. Muted.

9 Go ahead, Mr. De Castro.

10 MR. DE CASTRO: Thank you, Judge.

11 And this web that the government continues to allude 12 to, no one's asking them to disclose targets, but they can't 13 then say with just this crowd, there's this web of people. No 14 one knows -- we only know who it is who are going to help him, 15 this web of people that are going to help him financially and 16 somehow physically get him to safety somewhere. That web of 17 people, have they hired counsel for him? No. Does the 18 government talk about all the money Mr. Garcia Luna has in his 19 account? No. He has no money. He has no ability to do this 20 and no one is coming to his, quote, unquote, "rescue."

21 Meanwhile, he's sitting in the MDC in a unit that is 22 directly next to the unit where they are allegedly 23 quarantining inmates and, which we can talk about later, does 24 have a higher risk for contracting COVID-19. He is not a 25 flight risk here. I think Judge Levy was clear and I think

1 right to say that this is aailable case. He said what do we 2 need. We need some people with more skin in the game. Fine.
3 So we did that. People are willing to come to his aid and 4 they are.

5 With respect to this issue of property value, so
6 I've been doing this for a little while. I've been a
7 prosecutor and now I've been a defense lawyer for over a 8 decade in the federal court and I think when we have an 9 appraisal available, we try to get them. It's difficult when 10 the entire country has been on lockdown and has been preparing 11 for this since January. We are basing the market value on the 12 people, the individuals who say, I think my house is worth
13 this amount, and then just looking around at sort of listings
14 to get a sense for the market.

15 So I think that, in the government's submission, I 16 think there's something about how the potential suretors have 17 only paid, paid interest. Well, welcome to the banking world.
18 I wish I was JPMorgan Chase or some other bank because for the 19 first 10 years, you pretty much only pay interest and that's 20 why it's a 30 year mortgage, but I think this is his 21 community. These are his friends, this is his family, that 22 are willing to sign on this bond and put themselves at risk.
23 I think it is very telling that someone who's a waiter, a 24 waitress, a manager in a restaurant, is willing to do this 25 because of their connection to the family. Right? Because

1 Mr. Garcia Luna, it's not just him, it's his wife, his two 2 children, all three of them.

3 Mr. Garcia Luna is a lawful permanent resident of 4 the United States. His wife and two children are United 5 States citizens. They moved here in 2012. His kids are in 6 college. They are remotely learning right now. They are all 7 living together and they, they are all trying to -- and 8 they're renting an apartment.

9 So I think this is a very strong bail package. I 10 don't know what else the government would want. What they 11 have said to you Your Honor is, well, the suretors don't have 12 enough in the game. Okay. So the bond should be 3 million 13 then according to them. Then that's it. Fine.

14 Then I'll address COVID, I guess, after the 15 government. Thank you, Judge.

16 THE COURT: I'm just looking at the surety report
17 that was given to Judge Levy.

18 Mr. De Castro, does his wife, Ms. Flores Alvarez, 19 and his son and daughter, do they all have passports?

20 MR. DE CASTRO: Yes, and they are all, and they're 21 all willing to provide them to the Court.

22 MR. HARRIS: Your Honor, just to address that 23 point -- I know you're reviewing documents. I'm happy to 24 wait. I just wanted to reiterate that, you know, it's our 25 understanding that an American citizen can cross into Mexico

1 without a passport, without official documents, by vehicle or 2 by car. So I don't think that turning in passports provides 3 any kind of deterrent or assurance that they're not going to 4 cross.

5 I'm happy to address some of the other points but if 6 Your Honor is focused on that, I'm happy to focus where Your 7 Honor would like clarity.

8 MR. DE CASTRO: If I may, on that point of the 9 crossing, I mean we're proposing location monitoring and, you 10 know, sometimes -- you know, the government in a violation of 11 supervised release, for example, will say how amazing location
12 monitoring is and how, how we can pinpoint that this defendant
13 left here and violated supervised release, but then in a 14 proceeding like this, they want to say location monitoring is 15 not sufficient. I don't understand. There's a notification 16 immediately if someone leaves a particular area that is 17 designated and, you know, I've experienced it all over the 18 district and --

19 THE COURT: I assume Mr. Harris is referring to his 20 family and not Mr. Garcia Luna in that last comment.

21 MR. HARRIS: It's both, Your Honor, and the question 22 is not, I think, the ability of location monitoring to 23 determine if the defendant has left the district. It's the 24 ability of if, to do so and the appropriate resources to be 25 mobilized in extremely short order in light of a pandemic and

1 government overload, where this defendant only needs a few 2 hours to get in the car and drive straight to the border and 3 the question will be if that's a sufficient amount of time for 4 the appropriate notifications to be made and once they have 5 been made, he can be stopped.

6 THE COURT: A few hours from Washington, D.C. to get 7 to Mexico or to Canada even?

8 MR. HARRIS: I certainly think it can be done in 9 less than a day, Your Honor.

10 THE COURT: And the borders are closed.

11 MR. HARRIS: Well, Your Honor, I think we all well 12 know that border is a porous border and it is not one that, 13 you know, if the official border crossing is closed, that 14 forebodes people from crossing the border.

15 THE COURT: Hold on just one second.

16 It's a pretty good trek from DC to Mexico, to the 17 border. It's at least a day. It's 1,800 miles.

18 MR. DE CASTRO: Judge, Google Maps tells me that it
19 would be one day and one hour by car to Laredo, Texas, 20 1,722 miles.

21 MR. HARRIS: Well, Your Honor, if he cuts off his 22 ankle bracelet and flees, it's going to be very difficult to 23 locate him within one day and one hour, especially given the 24 current state of the country. That's all it takes.

25 MR. DE CASTRO: Not to belabor this point, but I

1 think it would be easier to find someone when you have the 2 entire resources of the federal government agencies and the 3 fact that most people are inside their homes.

4 THE COURT: Didn't this just happen yesterday or the 5 day before where it was someone that Judge Orenstein released
6 and within an hour, he cut off his anklet and they got him?

7 MR. HARRIS: So, Your Honor, I don't know the 8 specifics of the case. I do know that he cut off his ankle
9 monitor. I don't know whether he remained in his home. I 10 don't know whether he remained in his community. I certainly 11 do not have any reason to believe that he cut off his ankle
12 bracelet and started driving to the border.

13 THE COURT: If you cut it off, it triggers.

14 MR. LONG: Your Honor, this is Robert Long with 15 Pretrial. I can speak to that case if necessary.

16 THE COURT: Go ahead, Mr. Long.

17 MR. LONG: Yes. So that defendant was scheduled to 18 go into drug treatment the next day. He did not flee. We 19 were notified immediately of the bracelet being cut. We were 20 able to -- yes, he picked up the phone, and it just doesn't 21 have any connection to the idea of fleeing the community or 22 risk of flight. There's other noncompliance issues involved 23 in that case.

24 THE COURT: But if someone cuts their anklet off, 25 notification is immediately sent to Pretrial Services,

1 correct?

2 MR. LONG: That's correct. We receive an immediate 3 tamper bracelet alert.

4 THE COURT: And if they keep it on and just leave 5 the premises, then you get an alert as well, yes?

6 MR. LONG: Correct. So if the bracelet is on, they 7 leave the house without authorization, we're also notified as 8 well.

9 MR. HARRIS: So, Your Honor, I do think that case is 10 materially different in that the defendant did not attempt to 11 flee or leave the home.

12 Pretrial Services may be notified that he has cut it 13 off, but the question is not notification. Again, it's the 14 ability to locate him within short order if he chooses to flee
15 and I don't know that the resources can be mobilized that 16 quickly to locate him in time.

17 THE COURT: So it's the government's position that 18 this is not just a bailable case at all; is that fair to say?

19 MR. HARRIS: It is fair to say, Your Honor, and 20 that's because of a number of reasons which I think we 21 discussed earlier. This defendant faces potentially life 22 imprisonment. That's an extremely powerful motivator. He has 23 a place to flee, resources to assist him when he arrives there 24 and every incentive to do so. So it's our view that this is 25 just not a bailable case and, again, Pretrial Services reached

1 the same conclusion.

2 THE COURT: I --

3 MR. DE CASTRO: I'd like to add that Pretrial
4 Services reached that conclusion without ever talking to any 5 of the co-signers and that's because when I asked to provide,
6 when I asked them to provide that information, they didn't 7 want it and then they were received that information after 8 Judge Levy required it. And then I spoke to Pretrial Services
9 that afternoon and I said, What would you like, do you want 10 telephone numbers, do you want time? They said, Well, we have 11 this new form. So then they sent me the new form, the suretor
12 declaration form. I immediately had every single person fill 13 it out except for Ivan Ramirez and Monica Sarmiento because 14 they had counsel and that counsel needed to communicate that 15 to them and they immediately filled them out, sent it back.
16 They didn't call -- and then we set up times, a window of 17 times for them to call. They didn't call a single person.

18 MR. LONG: I'm sorry. Once again, Robert Long, 19 Pretrial Services.

20 I'm not privy to the exact timeline, but the idea
21 this we didn't speak to people, I'm a little confused. We did 22 surety reports that were submitted to the Court so I'm not 23 quite sure what that means, that we didn't speak to anyone.

24 MR. DE CASTRO: Pretrial spoke to two people, Monica 25 Sarmiento and Ivan Ramirez in person. Everyone else, they

1 relied on the suretor declaration form. That's what I was 2 informed of, that they did not need to speak to them. I have 3 e-mails that say it.

4 MR. HARRIS: Your Honor, that's because Pretrial
5 Services reached the same conclusion, that there are no
6 combination of conditions of here, just the fact of the nature 7 of the crime charged, potential exposure, defendant's ties to 8 a foreign country that is just next door. If there are no 9 combination of conditions here, then the particulars of the 10 suretors is not, is not relevant because there are no 11 combination of conditions.

12 MR. DE CASTRO: Well, I sent an e-mail to Judge Levy
13 and he asked them to do the report. They chose not to speak 14 to anyone.

15 THE COURT: I disagree with Judge Levy so I am going 16 to reject the bail package that is been presented.

17 I don't believe there are any conditions or 18 combination of conditions that can ensure Mr. Garcia Luna's 19 presence in court when necessary, not to minimize the package
20 that's been offered, but I don't think that it is sufficient.
21 I am not sure that, given the seriousness of the charges that 22 Mr. Garcia Luna faces and the potential should he be found 23 guilty for a significant sentence, that he could resist the 24 urge to flee. I reject the bail package.

25 That doesn't mean that the temporary release is not

1 in order so why don't you address that, Mr. Harris.

2 MR. HARRIS: Yes, Your Honor.

3 So the defendant has asked for temporary release
4 under Section 3142(i). He claims that he is in a high risk 5 category for susceptibility to COVID-19. That's just not the 6 case.

7 In the defendant's own submission, the medical 8 doctor represented that people who are over 60 years old and 9 have a chronic medical condition are in a high risk category.
10 The defendant is not over 60 years old. He does not have a 11 chronic medical indication. They indicate that five years 12 ago, he had some kind of condition that required some sort of 13 treatment and that's the only document of a medical condition.
14 I think there's a reference to some other condition from 2019 15 but there's no medical documentation for that or anything to 16 kind of provide any kind of substantiation for that, for that 17 claim.

18 As the Court, I'm sure, is aware, the MDC has 19 compiled an extensive list of all inmates that fall into a 20 high risk category for COVID-19. The defendant is not on that 21 list.

22 Now, the government, of course, takes the threats of 23 COVID-19 extremely seriously. We are in daily contact with 24 the MDC and the BOP. As of right now, my understanding is 25 there's only one inmate at MDC who had a confirmed case of

1 COVID-19. That inmate is isolated. That defendant has access 2 to hot water and soap and that's without video contact to 3 confirm that's the defendant's particular situation. The BOP 4 has issued a number of procedures to ensure the health and the 5 safety of the inmates including requiring inmates to self 6 seclude.

7 We think this inmate does not have, fall into a high
8 risk category. There's no medical documentation to support
9 that. We do take this seriously and the MDC is taking extra 10 precautions to ensure the safety of the defendants. The U.S.
11 Attorney's Office is not opposing bond petitions categorically 12 with respect to all inmates. We are doing it on a case by 13 case basis and, as appropriate, releasing genuine high risk 14 inmates. The defendant is just not one of those inmates. He 15 does not fall into a high risk category and so he should not 16 be granted temporary release.

17 THE COURT: Mr. De Castro?

18 MR. DE CASTRO: Thank you, Judge.

19 So in the government's response to our bail
20 application and I think even today, they are extraordinarily 21 minimizing the danger that COVID-19 poses to the population
22 inside the MDC including Mr. Garcia Luna.

23 We are today, March 31, 2020, nearing or we have 24 1,218 deaths in New York City, 250 yesterday alone. The 25 Javitz Center is a hospital. Central Park has a military

1 style tent hospital. A military ship has arrived and docked
2 in New York City for emergency beds to assist in a crisis.
3 Mayor de Blasio is essentially begging the United States
4 Government for more resources every single day and FEMA has 5 started to make makeshift morgues in New York City.

6 The government's response to our application in this 7 regard is the same as their response has been in almost all of 8 these applications, citing the BOP's action plan. Those 9 action plans are under, which they say they have started in 10 January of 2012, are very, very, very questionable.

11 THE COURT: I have to cut you off. I have to cut 12 you off Mr. De Castro, because that isn't true.

13 I've been for the past week dealing with 14 applications for temporary release and the government does not 15 merely fall back on BOP's efforts to make the facility as safe 16 as it can be. Where someone has a medical condition, the 17 government has, if not consented for temporary release, at 18 least not objected. So they do take this seriously. They are 19 responding appropriately. We had a defendant earlier this 20 morning who has a documented health condition that makes him 21 at higher risk for developing complications related to 22 COVID-19.

23 MR. DE CASTRO: I don't mean to suggest 24 categorically. I mean, in terms of those that they are 25 opposing, they are opposing many, because I know, I'm doing

1 them, I have also a client who was released from the MDC and 2 so what I'm talking about is that I think the information
3 coming out of the MDC and -- withdrawn.

4 When the government is opposing an application, what 5 you see is look the BOP's action plan, look at how great the 6 BOP's action plan is.

7 Number one, yes, the MDC is apparently reporting
8 only one inmate that is positive. This is also a facility
9 that has only has nine, nine, according to Warden Edge, nine
10 kits in order to test people. They have identified 537
11 inmates as potentially vulnerable but yet, the Federal 12 Defenders, myself, others have asked what is the basis. No
13 one has informed anybody of that basis because I have two 14 clients on that list and I am trying to figure out what the 15 basis is, they won't even tell us and, furthermore, for even 16 those clients that are at high risk, I am now on day six, six 17 awaiting a telephone call with my client.

18 It is clearly an emergency situation at the BOP.
19 There are not only inmates that we think are positive and are 20 just not symptomatic right now and are probably shedding the 21 virus and infecting others, but there are staff members that 22 are positive. As Representative Velazquez had reported at the 23 end of March, there were 3 staff members that were positive.
24 Since then, two more are positive and, in fact, I believe the 25 Representative is also positive now, too.

1 So there is, according to the Federal Defender for 2 the Eastern District, Deirdre von Dornum, in her affidavit 3 filed yesterday in a class action for at-risk defendants at 4 the MDC, they have spoken to greater than 100 clients at the 5 MDC, I certainly haven't spoken to that many, I don't have 6 that many in jail, but that there has been very little 7 sanitation changes. Some units have soap. There has been 8 basically a ten minute presentation made to the inmates 9 regarding safety procedures and COVID. The staff and the 10 units are -- some are wearing masks. Some are not wearing 11 protective gear. It's up to them individually.

12 And that -- sorry, Judge. One second.

13 I think that the wave is coming as is the wave at -- 14 I hope it's not and I hope they are putting in procedures, but 15 what I'm seeing is that the wave is probably coming which is 16 the wave that is happening at the New York City jails right 17 now where it is running rampant.

18 Judge Engelmayer in the Southern District of 19 New York yesterday issued an opinion in a case which is United 20 States versus McKenzie. In that, in considering the similar 21 application, McKenzie, he was released on bail pending
22 sentencing. So he was a convicted defendant on a plea on a 23 mandatory remand case for aiding and abetting and assault with 24 a dangerous weapon. He was at the MCC and his high risk was 25 simply that he had asthma and Judge Engelmayer held --

1 THE COURT: That's not -- that is not such a simple 2 thing. I mean, asthma is a respiratory problem that can be,
3 could prove deadly if someone has COVID-19 and this person who 4 you are pointing to is in a very different situation than your 5 client. He is awaiting sentencing so there's even less 6 incentive for him to flee or to violate the terms of his 7 release than someone with Pretrial. So that's -- it's almost 8 an apples and oranges comparison.

9 MR. DE CASTRO: Well, Judge, I would submit that 10 it's the opposite. Someone who knows that they're about to 11 serve a significant amount of jail time for being convicted 12 versus someone who is planning on fighting the charges, is 13 presumed innocent and plans on prevailing. There's a big 14 difference there, I would submit.

15 But I think what I wanted to quote from 16 Judge Engelmayer, and I agree with you, asthma is very serious 17 but, unfortunately, that's not the position I'm being told by 18 the BOP and in my other clients with asthma, unless it's 19 serious, serious asthma where they take medication on top of 20 an inhaler.

21 But in that case, Judge Engelmayer, you know, 22 recognized that, quote, "Several courts have already 23 recognized the heightened threat posed by COVID-19 to an 24 inmate with a documented respiratory condition in a detention 25 facility with multiple confirmed cases, that that presents a

1 unique set of circumstances." He goes on to say and conclude 2 that it's self-evident to the court that Mr. McKenzie is at 3 greater risk of contracting COVID-19 while confined at the MCC
4 and will be safer at home. But I think what's also 5 interesting is that in, in that opinion, Judge Engelmayer, and 6 the government's response is very similar to the government's 7 response here, citing --

8 THE COURT: I'm sorry. I think Judge Engelmayer is 9 wrong. Okay. Someone who has asthma is not at greater risk 10 for contracting COVID-19. Someone who is immunodepressed is.
11 So the problem with asthma and other respiratory problems is 12 not that because of that, you are going to get COVID-19. It's 13 that if you get COVID-19, it's much more devastating because 14 you already have respiratory problems and COVID-19 attacks,
15 leads to pneumonia and other things that cause breathing 16 problems.

17 And, you know, all of this is besides the point.
18 Your client doesn't have a health condition, I haven't heard, 19 really that is problematic.

20 MR. DE CASTRO: His respiratory issue which we're 21 able to get documentation from 2016 but he had a recent attack 22 in 2019, is something that his doctor says potentially was 23 hereditary. His father passed way of a respiratory issue, 24 that, yes, the change in the season and air conditioning and 25 things trigger an attack. What are his symptoms? As

1 described by him and his family, shortness of breath, high
2 fever exacerbated by the anxiety of having it. He was given 3 naproxen, acetaminophen, ibuprofen, and those are his 4 respiratory issues.

5 So I think were he to -- I appreciate the judge's 6 comment, yes, I think that that's right, and none of us are at 7 higher risk of getting it, right? Everybody can just get it.
8 That's the scary part of it. It's just spreading to everyone.
9 It's the risk of complications should you contract it which,
10 you know, I submit I think is, it is going to run rampant 11 within the MDC and MCC. I hope I am wrong about that, but 12 what we see happening seems to be to the contrary, so I
13 resubmit that we think his respiratory issue is sufficient 14 enough to temporarily release him.

15 THE COURT: Can you point me to where in Dr. Giftos'
16 affidavit it describes his respiratory condition?

17 MR. DE CASTRO: We don't -- it's not in his 18 affidavit, Judge. I'm sorry. One second. My apologies. I 19 wasn't able to print everything. I'm in a printerless spot so 20 I'm just looking electronically at an exhibit.

21 Valerie, do you have it handy?

22 MS. GOTLIB: Yes. Exhibit K is the letter from our 23 client's doctor and Exhibit L is the affidavit from Dr. Giftos 24 and it is in Exhibit K that we have information specific to 25 our client's particular respiratory issues.

1 THE COURT: One second. Bear with me, please.

2 MS. GOTLIB: And this was the initial submission
3 filed on March 25th, Your Honor, not the reply.

4 THE COURT: I can't find it. I don't have access.

5 MR. DE CASTRO: Judge, I have it open. I can read 6 it to you, if you like.

7 THE COURT: Yes, please.

8 MR. DE CASTRO: So it's from Dr. Enrique Herrera 9 Ascencio, A-S-C-E-N-C-I-O, a translated version. It was in 10 Spanish originally. The translated version reads as follows.

11 "Through this channel, it is stated that on June 26, 12 2015, I examined Ing Genaro in the office of the undersigned 13 below for a respiratory condition characterized by cough and 14 whitish expectoration, mild respiratory distress and 15 occasional wheezing. I referred him after exposure to air
16 conditioning. Bronchodilators were prescribed. Aipatropium 17 bromide for three days, with a parenthetical that it is 18 Atrovent, and Aclidinium for six weeks as well as symptomatic 19 ibuprofen and Vartalon.

20 THE COURT: That was in 2015?

21 MR. DE CASTRO: Correct.

22 THE COURT: And was there an exacerbation or 23 recurrence of that in 2019?

24 MR. DE CASTRO: Yes, in November of 2019.

25 THE COURT: Where in the record is there an

1 indication of his father having the same or similar 2 conditions?

3 MR. DE CASTRO: It's not in the record, Judge. I
4 haven't been able to obtain any documentation of that. I'm 5 just proffering it, Your Honor, that the family has informed 6 me of that.

7 MR. HARRIS: And, Your Honor, this is Ryan Harris.
8 Just to also be clear, other than this one paragraph about the 9 condition for a few weeks in 2015, there is no documentation 10 substantiating the claim that there was a recurrence of his 11 condition in 2019. As far as the medical documentation is 12 concerned, all it shows is that he had mild respiratory 13 distress in June of 2015 and he took medication for a few 14 weeks.

15 MR. DE CASTRO: I think also the CDC indicator is 16 that it's people over 50, not 60. He is 51.

17 MR. HARRIS: Well, Your Honor, the defendant's own 18 affidavit from the medical doctor indicated that it was over 19 60 and, again, the MDC has not made a high risk, this is 20 not -- in the document submitted by the doctor, there's no
21 reference that this is a chronic condition which is the real 22 concern here. The concern is not whether in the past, years
23 ago, you had a respiratory illness but whether you had a 24 chronic respiratory or otherwise related condition now, not 25 something that you had five years ago.

1 THE COURT: Last word, Mr. De Castro.

2 MR. DE CASTRO: So I wouldn't know if he's having 3 any respiratory conditions because I can't speak to my client
4 anyway. I don't even know -- no matter what we do to request 5 it and I appreciate the BOP's issues. I don't know, I don't 6 know what, what's happening. I know he's very scared and is 7 very concerned that he will contract the virus and if he does, 8 it will have a very significant effect.

9 THE COURT: The application for temporary release is 10 denied absent some definitive indication that Mr. Garcia Luna 11 suffers from a chronic respiratory condition or some other 12 medical condition that places him at a higher risk for 13 complications related to COVID-19. I find that there is 14 insufficient grounds to release him temporarily. So those are 15 my rulings.

16 Mr. De Castro, if you would like to appeal that to 17 Judge Cogan, you're free to do so.

18 MR. DE CASTRO: Thank you, Judge.

19 THE COURT: Is there anything else?

20 MR. HARRIS: Not from the government, Your Honor.

21 MR. DE CASTRO: No, Your Honor.

22 THE COURT: Thank you.

23 THE CLERK: Okay. Thank you. Thank you, everyone.

24 (Teleconference ended.)
25
